

LESSON 4

Recording Family History Information

ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

1. If you choose to use PAF, online lessons are available here: <http://www.familysearch.org/eng/paf/lessons/paf5.html>
2. Free trials or versions of the following genealogical software are available at the following websites:
Legacy: <http://www.legacyfamilytree.com/Index.asp>
Roots Magic: <http://www.rootsmagic.com/>
More information on genealogy programs can be found at <http://familyhistorylab.byu.edu/Lesson6.php>
Most genealogical programs offer tutorials, either within the program or on their website, to help you become familiar with how to use the program.
3. If you are a Mac user, a list of genealogy software can be found here: <http://familyhistorylab.byu.edu/Lesson2-3.php>

ASSIGNMENTS

1. Choose a software program and begin to build your personal family file.

To do this, enter any information into the program that you have collected from family sources. Remember to include a source citation saying where you got the information from.

If you have chosen to use Roots Magic or Legacy, you can begin your file by importing information directly from New Family Search.

If you received a file from a family member, create your own family file. This will help you know what information you have collected.

Family History Consultants can help you with this process.
